SUIT YOURSELF . . . Jack Anderson, Ear hears, is working up a piece on Edward Bennett Williams. Terribly tricky, you know. Ed got so funny about that bit of Larry Lehmer's book that almost appeared in the Washingtonian. He's so fond of saying he'll sue when anyone breathes a word . . . Speaking of which, Ear hears that King Features is quite touchy about someone-or-other taking over a title they use on Robin Adams Sloane's syndicated thingummy. It's "The Gossip Column." Ear has no idea what they're talking about.
